

The Various

The Various are, variously, individuals who have melded their biology with technology to the extent that where the organic ends and the inorganic begins is nigh impossible to tell. To a greater or lesser extent, all Various are Cyborgs with major technological enhancements - a status which is generally respected among most in the galaxy. Of the Various, there are three major categories:

Technomancers embrace the technological and push their machine parts to the extreme to acquire new abilities, the Transcended see their enhancements as a stepping stone to a greater biological form, while Scavengers see necessity in balance and focus on maximising the utility out of their enhancements.

Class Feature: Assimilation

The Various can merge aspects of the world into themselves in order to empower various abilities. Some of their abilities will require specific elements to be harvested, but at base all harvesting bolsters a Various regardless of its affects.

- The Various have a base 8 hits.
- The Various may spend 5s of appropriate roleplay to call HARVEST on a character within reach who is unconscious, dead, or willing.
  - This process is incredibly painful and repeated exposure to it will have deleterious effects on the victim.
- Calling HARVEST restores your body hits by half your maximum, in addition to any other effects.

Autocannibalism

Once per adventure you may give yourself over completely to the enhancements. You immediately regain all of your hits and may immediately power three abilities that require a HARVEST call. Until the end of the current encounter you will feel a drive toward your last goal before activating this ability - it is up to you how you wish to roleplay this.
